SHARP TEETH

Wolf hunts with a pack of friends
And howls most every night
No wonder she so easily rends
With canine teeth to bite

Alligator has some jaws
That close like a steel trap
Should in his mouth you chance to pause
He'll eat you in a snap

Piranhas are small river fish
That seldom swim alone
And when they meet a favorite dish
They strip it to the bone

Tyrannosaurus was once King
Of all that he surveyed
For there was hardly anything
That he need leave unflayed

Mother Bear is most prepared
To keep her cubs from harm
Her claws and teeth like razors bared
Do work just like a charm

Sharks have teeth like sharpened blades
Formed perfectly to slice
For munching meals they make great aids
There's nothing near so nice

Lion hunts his fill to eat
Then takes a lengthy rest
His big sharp teeth at shearing meat
Quite simply are the best

Tiger has no need to burn
All she need do is bite
Her teeth most sharp enough to earn
Dominion of the night
